

GUIDANT

Smith Meter® AccuLoad® IV

AccuLoad IV is the latest generation of the AccuLoad preset control system, the longest-lived and most used controller in the industry—the culmination of over 40 years' experience in the manufacturing of the market-leading preset batch load controller.

Guidant is the leading technology solutions provider for oil and gas measurement. We design, manufacture, market, and service metering products and systems. Our expertise gives you the assurance that the AccuLoad IV will continue to provide you the most efficient interface for your business processes and applications.

Benefits

- An intuitive and easy-to-use touch screen interface that streamlines business processes and saves money by reducing errors and optimizing load times
- Available kit enables a seamless upgrade from AccuLoad III by directly replacing electronic assemblies, reusing existing wired connectors
- Powerful Linux OS on ARM platform; designed for networking and positioned for future expansion
- Enhanced diagnostics plus unparalleled factory service and support means reduced downtime
- More efficient communications and flexible TAS interface; Guidant provides complete solutions from meters and presets to full terminal automation packages
- Web browser-based access to monitor and control from anywhere on your network
